

Socialising your kitten

Socialising your kitten is a very important part of their development. They need to become comfortable with people, other kittens & their environment. This includes socialising them to cat carriers, car travel, vacuum cleaners, grooming equipment etc.

A Kittens socialisation period is between 3-9weeks of age. During this time, any positive encounters will have a strong impact on their future behaviour.

It is very important for your kitten to become social with other kittens & cats. However, it is just as important for it have regular handling & human contact. This is how your kitten learns acceptable behaviours around you.